Faces of Eagles Nest Wilderness

A perfect June day for a day hike, plus - being Sunday - the egress of backpackers from the deep backcountry

15 images

1. Day hikers Anne & Adam

2. Day hikers headed for Boulder Lake

3. Sophomores - Gonzaga (nursing) and U. OR (ecology)

4. John, Patti, and Mischi - scouting for an elk/deer hunt this fall

5. Backpackers returning

6. Family returning form an overnight backpack to Boulder Lake

7. Champions of LEAVE NO TRACE - packing out trash from their overnight backpack trip

8. Thanks for those dogs on leash

9. Two Denver University students returning from...

10. ... a backpack trip with friends

11. These fellows pushed hard towards Upper Boulder Lake, fighting early season deep snowdrifts and downed timber

12. Mariah, leading an Outward Bound course for a resupply...

13. ... OB students led by Connor (right) for a respite, before heading back to the high country, living on deep snow for another week.

14. Eagles Nest Goddesses - emerging after three days in the backcountry clearing trails of blowdown timber...

15. Many hikers expressed thanks for work of US Forest Service Rangers Anne, Catherine, Nikki, and Karrie